Ten artists living in New York City were encouraged to reflect over the guiding principles in their creative process and they were invited to reinterpret them in an entirely new way. One artist, each hour from 8am to 8pm will reveal his/her new making! It's open, it's free, and it's in and around Union Square!

*Find us in the southwest corner of the park by the Gandhi statue, at the start of each hour, then some of the artist will walk around the square.
